DEDICATION

"Stimulated by the vitality of her teaching, colleagues grow in the warmth of her encouragement and the challenge of her leadership. Working with Hazel Carruth is working with a scholar, a leader, and a friend."

—Marilyn Walker and Mildred Chapman
Colleagues

"Hazel Carruth's devotion to Christ is evidenced in many ways. In her church it is in faithful worship, leadership of the administrative board, and special concern for her pastor and family as a trustee. How appropriate for a Christian university to dedicate its yearbook in her honor."

—John W. Davis
Pastor

With these thoughts in mind, we, the editors, proudly dedicate the 1977-78 ILIUM to Hazel Carruth.

... "Students, alumni, and colleagues are the most effective witnesses to her excellent teaching and leadership during these years. We are all beneficiaries of her deep Christian commitment and high-quality service."

—Milo A. Rediger
Chancellor

... "Consecrated Christian, talented teacher, loyal Taylor alumna, but most of all—my true friend!"

—Alice Holcombe
Friend

Dear Prospective Student,

Taylor University is pleased to announce that you have been accepted for regular admission to the fall term, 1977. Welcome to Taylor. We look forward to your joining the Taylor Community!

Yours Sincerely,
Randall Germann
Office of Admissions

What does this really mean? . . .

What do you think? . . .

. . . What really matters is: how much does it cost? Am I going to get a "nerd" for a roommate? Is there an initiation? Will breakfast be this horrible? Will I get a date to the Christmas banquet? What's a "Mathis Church?" . . .

You mean chapel is three days a week? Why are the showers always cold? Would you believe it's been three weeks since I've had a date? Who in the world is "Captain Kill-A-Watt?" What's a Trojan? Why can't I dance? . . .

If you can relate to these questions, then you have become a part of the Taylor community. But, it's more than just a football game on Friday night, or a trip to Dot's with the wing! . . .

Taylor is many things that make up a total experience, and we hope the pages that follow capsule this year's portion of that experience for you!!!

A group of people, mostly women, are walking from left to right in front of a building with vertical corrugated metal siding. The scene is lit with warm, golden light, suggesting late afternoon or early morning. The people are dressed in winter or late autumn clothing. Some are carrying books or papers. The overall mood is quiet and contemplative.

People Sharing Class Contact

Being able to share together as a body of believers is an important aspect of Taylor University. Through our weekly contact sessions on Thursday evening, we've experienced a warm time to share and fellowship in our common bond of Jesus Christ.

In addition, Student Ministries has sponsored such groups as Lamb's Players and Jeremiah People. "Contact" has been a blessing to many of our students this year, and we pray that it will continue to be in coming years.

“SUNDAY MORNING COMIN’ DOWN”

You took my hand,
 You worshipped the Lord,
 You smiled, you laughed,
 You praised the Lord.
 You sang and prayed with me
 How you glorified the Lord.
 You let me cry; You waked with me,
 instead of away from me.
 You helped me look up when I
 wanted to look down.
 You worshipped the Lord.
 You told me He loved me,
 and I listened. . .
 Come, you are my brother—
 Let us worship our Lord Together.

Grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

II Peter 3:18

LIGHTHOUSE '78

This was the seventh consecutive year that the Lighthouse team accepted an invitation to minister in the Bahamas during the month of January.

We had an excellent opportunity to apply the training we have been receiving at Taylor. We ministered in various ways: performing sacred concerts in local churches, conducting visitation work in prisons and elderly folks' homes, providing teacher training in local churches and teacher colleges, working with children in elementary schools, presenting programs in high school assemblies, holding special programs aboard ships, and assisting local pastors and missionaries. Lighthouse '78 was a growing experience.

Don't you know that those who run in a race all run, but only one receives the prize? Run so that you may win.

I Cor. 9:24

Theme Song:

If we could live in our father's world,
And walk with Him hand in hand,
Open our eyes, Lord, we need to see,
Your loving and your firm command.
So Christians living in the world,
It's the time and place
To run your race for Him.
Although we are never finished,
The time has come to begin.
Let's open up our hearts
And let the love of Christ
Reach out and speak within,
For with Christ alone we can win!

lyrics by Jim Wheeler

CELEBRATION!!!

Yes, we Celebrated. The celebration is because of what was, what is, and what will be. It is the actualization of who we are through the one who was, is, and will be, our Lord and Liberator Jesus Christ. Therefore, the celebration was a continuation of what is and will always be.

MISCELLANEA

from Bach to Rock

The February production of Bertolt Brecht's "Galileo" confronted the campus community with the question of moral and ethical responsibility in a scientific and technological age. Brecht, a Marxist, chose to question society through the life of Galeleo Galilei, the father of modern physics, who, in 1633 was forced by the church to recant his teaching that the earth revolves around the sun. Juxtaposed against this 17th century tapestry of intrigue and intuition, the director, Oliver Hubbard, introduced themes of Brecht's own struggles in Nazi Germany, the development and deployment of the first atomic bomb, and the Church's attitude toward technological advances in our own age.

The question raised for the Christian college community is, are we preparing ourselves for meaningful involvement in a world that needs to hear God's redeeming Word.

Concerts—Part One

In keeping with its attempts to provide diversity, the Student Union Board brought a variety of big names, small up-and-comings, secular and sacred artists in its fall concert season. SUB's first concert embodied the diversity for which it was striving. B.J. Thomas provided the campus with some of his old standards, his new Christian material and his personal testimony. The newly born-again baritone thrilled the Taylor community with his extreme musical talent, his personable nature, and his superb showmanship.

Hoping not to detract from the Anne Murray homecoming concert, SUB offered four small concerts, starting with Tim Sheppard, and followed by Aslyn; Albrecht, Roley, and Moore; and finally with Taylor's own Haines Brothers.

The Board presented Michael Johnson as the season's final concert. A solo artist, Johnson played a variety of styles from ballads to classical to bosanova. The audience was pleased with his storybook sense of humor and his amazing guitar prowess. The magnificent performance capped off a successful fall season for the Student Union Board.

Not only a football victory homecoming weekend, but a victory over the weather as well. A homecoming without rain. Even at night the sun still shone through Anne Murray's singing.

A time set aside for fun and celebration with old and new friends—a victory over all, in that many truly "came home" to Taylor for our victory is a Lifesong.

"Jacques Brel Is Alive and Well and Living in Paris—Thank God!

Jacques Brel brought to the world and to our campus a musical of profound and moving insight. Brel's songs speak of life with authority and compassion, of people who need to be understood and loved, of their needs and aspirations, of their hopes and fears. . .of their loving.

The words and music of this contemporary French Chansonier often anger, move, dishearten, enlighten, inspire, but never bore as he so eloquently raises our hopes. . .

If we only have Love."

With the ECHO continuing to be a respected well-read media by the student body, news, feature, and sports interests kept the staff on its toes. Our 24 page Homecoming issue and 16 page spring issue highlighted the years 8-12 page weekly publications. Big news topics of the year included the radio station controversy, the energy crisis, and the tuition increase. In retrospect it was a year of uninterrupted involvement and diligent work by a committed staff. The ECHO'S 65th year of publication proved to be a significant one.

The ECHO is published weekly by the staff for the students, faculty and friends of Taylor University with its purpose being that of informing its readers of the activities on and around the campus.

The opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the entire staff but only those of the individual writer. Letters to the Editors may be addressed to the ECHO office, via campus mail and must also be signed to be printed. The right to edit or the use of discretion in the printing an article is reserved by the Editors and staff.

It is the policy of Taylor University not to discriminate on the basis of race, national origin, or sex in its educational programs, activities or employment policies, as required by Title VI of the Civil Rights Act and Title IX of the 1972 Educational Amendments. Inquiries regarding compliance may be directed to Dr. Robert D. Pitts, Administration Building, Taylor University (998-2751, ext. 204 or 381) or to the Director of the Office of Civil Rights, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington, D.C.

ART

The Department of Art offers a major for the B.A. and B.S. degrees, as well as a teaching minor. Our department also helps in the training of other majors in elementary and early childhood education. In order to accommodate differences in the interests and experiences of the students, the art program offers courses dealing with a variety of ideas, principles, and materials. A primary concern of the Department of Art is the perpetuation of an environment conducive to creative development and at the same time to emphasize the significance of visual art in the Christian context.

BIOLOGY

The Biology Department provides a program to meet the academic needs of students whose interests vary from medicine to natural resources to teaching and other biological pursuits. Most of these concerns are represented among the 1978 graduates. The department's program is designed principally to provide appropriate pre-professional preparation. The undergraduate foundation thus acquired equips students to enter graduate programs, secondary teaching, medical school, and other vocations. The campus-based formal course program is supplemented with honors experiences, practicums, and the unique opportunities afforded by the T.U. Biology Field Station. The total University program enables students to pursue their biological interests in an atmosphere conducive to the development of an adequate world and life view.

Chemistry

The Department of Chemistry provides instruction for majors interested in pre-professional training, education, industry and graduate school. Most of our majors are pre-medical or pre-dental students. This year we have two seniors graduating from Taylor. One has been accepted to Indiana University Medical School and the other senior will go on to graduate school, possibly at Ball State.

COMMUNICATION AND THEATRE ARTS

The Communication and Theatre Arts Department believes that human communication, at its best, is a personal, supportive response to the uniqueness and worth of persons. Students are encouraged to approach communication processes and skills as agencies of growth and service rather than exploitation. We believe participation in theatre increases our understanding of the human condition, expands our awareness of human need, offers creative activity for the development of expressive gifts, and provides a means of articulating our Christian world and life view. CTA courses are designed to help students develop skills which are particularly important in such professions as law, government, business, teaching, Christian service ministries, mass communication, and dramatic arts.

EDUCATION

The Taylor University Education Department has a distinct opportunity in educating future teachers in that the total teacher preparation package—the knowledge skills and value structure—is flexible in its application. More and more teacher graduates are completing the teacher education program with the intention of entering careers which are allied with and/or related to education. Taylor prepares teachers for secondary (fourteen different subject areas), elementary, Christian day and nursery schools, day care centers, and schools serving the mentally retarded. The growth of Christian day schools in the United States is creating a need for teachers at all grade levels who can effectively integrate faith and learning. In response to this demand, we have designed a special series of courses and practical experiences for students desiring to teach in Christian schools. The fastest growing teacher education program at Taylor is early childhood training. Another popular curriculum is the teaching endorsement in special education which prepares persons to work with mentally disadvantaged students.

ENGLISH

The Department of English offers a Bachelor of Arts degree and a Bachelor of Science (in education) degree. More than half of the English majors prepare to teach English in junior and senior high schools. Some B.A. majors have continued their study in seminaries and graduate schools to prepare for careers in law, medicine, library science, college teaching, and the Christian ministry. Some have secured positions requiring writing. But preparing students for careers is only part of the department's concern. English offers life-long values: proficiency in writing, personal enrichment, human compassion, broad understanding, criteria for judgment, and Christian outlook through the study of literature.

HISTORY

"Those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it." Through these words, the philosopher George Santayana clearly expressed one of the values of studying history. "I know of no way of judging the future but by the past," stated Patrick Henry. Taylor's history department offers a wide-range of courses in American, European, Non-western, and the Pre-modern era aimed at giving students a clearer understanding, from an historical perspective, of the numerous significant current world events. The department considers a major in history to be a good basis for numerous careers, including law, government service, international organizations, the ministry, business, journalism, library and archival work, as well as teaching.

Students may receive either a B.A. in history or B.S. in social studies.

Innovative 1978 interterm courses included: "History and Geography of the Southwest" with Wandering Wheels; "The American Presidency" taught on campus; and "Revolution and Reform" in Europe in conjunction with the English department. During the summer sessions, course offerings included: "History of Indiana" with Wandering Wheels; and "History of France" and "Modern Europe" taught in Nice and Strasbourg, France, respectively, with the Wheaton/Taylor ESPRIT program.

LANGUAGE

Modern Language majors develop a broad outlook on the world by learning how people in other cultures think, feel, and communicate about life and its realities. This knowledge increases the majors' respect for their own language and the facility with which they can communicate. Some teach; others enter fields of business, science, the humanities, or Christian service.

MATH

The mathematics program at Taylor attempts to teach majors the concepts and methods of mathematics needed for graduate school and jobs in education, business, industry, and government. This year's senior class has followed the tradition of Taylor mathematics majors by compiling an average score on the Undergraduate Record Exam which would rank at the 87th percentile. Next year these students will successfully begin graduate school, teaching careers, and various mathematically related jobs in actuarial science, operations research, statistics, and systems analysis.

MUSIC

The Taylor University music majors receive training as professional musicians within the cultural perspective of a liberal arts education. Their abilities to create and listen to music with discernment, good taste, artistic skill and musicianship and their expertise in educational methodology prepare them to enter the larger world of music making and teaching. Some students with a particular interest in performance skills will engage in private instruction or pursue graduate study leading to the teaching of applied music at the college level. Others will enter the field of music education as teachers or supervisors of music in the public or private school. Still others will become church musicians. It is our hope and prayer that all will dedicate their talents and abilities to Christ, His church, and its ministry on earth.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The Department of Physical Education and Health for men and women seeks to provide broad programs for all students. Offerings include courses leading to a B.A. and teacher certification under the B.S. degree. Certification under the latter enables students to teach elementary, junior and senior high school. The B.A. prepares students for advanced study in physical education, correctives, physical or recreational therapy, recreational administration, advanced study in athletic training, and health education consultants in industry.

Physics

Inquiring young people have found physics fascinating ever since Galileo's encounters with falling bodies at the Leaning Tower of Pisa, with the swinging chandelier in the cathedral and with the improvised telescope pointed towards Jupiter.

Physics is mainly a study of energy, motion, and matter. These topics are intimately related to the national priorities dealing with sources of energy and the environmental impact of its use. At a time when the world is concerned with energy shortages and alternatives, physics serves as one of the most relevant subjects in developing new energy sources such as nuclear, solar, and geothermal power. Employment opportunities for physicists have risen sharply in the past two years and are now at the peak level in this decade. Careers in electronics, nuclear energy, and health physics look particularly promising.

PSYCHOLOGY

The Psychology Department trains Christian psychologists who are prepared for further academic studies and/or professional responsibilities. Many psychology graduates will pursue master's and doctoral degrees and become college teachers, professional counselors, personnel and industrial psychologists, and researchers in all aspects of human behavior. The psychology B.A. degree has prepared others to be mental health assistants, probation officers, rehabilitation counselors, and vocational counselors. Typical work settings include community mental health centers, vocational rehabilitational centers, correctional institutions, day care centers, and crisis intervention centers. Furthermore, the psychology degree will be an asset to almost any type of career which involves working with and understanding human beings.

The time has come for us to say that we are definitely glad this traumatic experience is over and we now know why the suicide rate of yearbook editors is so high!!! Many times we contemplated leaving the country when a deadline was late, or lynching Alan Winquist when he pulled our layouts apart. But all in all this is one experience that will never leave us—in fact, this book will probably haunt us forever! But before you close the cover and condemn this book to many years of dust collecting, there are a few people we would like to thank for sticking by us and helping us through those dreaded deadlines.

We would like to thank our advisors, Jane Halteman and Alan Winquist, who never ceased to find something wrong with our layouts (only kidding—you were great, Jane and Alan), and our representative, Larry Glaze, who had to put up with our constant questioning. Ann Mather was our "Angel Unawares" who helped us with her tremendous artistry (as you can see from the cover!).

And individually we would like to thank:

DAVE B.—

My roommate Terry Seagrave
My wing—first west Wengatz
J.O.—first semester support
C.B.—second semester support

DAVE N.—

My wonderful wife, who put up with those late nights and cruddy moods!
My dog Nikki
